A ROUND OF TALK.

An Early Lesson.

(From the Washington Star.)
My dad he says, he says to me
I've got to realize
That work must never disagree
With folks that want a prize
In this here life. But, goodness land!
It strikes me as a rule
There ain't enough o' circus and
There's too blame much o' school.
It's mighty tryin' in the spring
To have to settle down.
I'm thinkin' 'bout the sawdust rings
An' wishin' for the clown.
I long to hear the big brass band
An' see the tricky mule.
There ain't enough o' circus and
There's too blame much o' school.
But dad, he says I might as well
Git used to feelin' so.
He says the honest truth to tell,
He'd shorely like to go
A-fishin', or with gun in hand,
Or loafin' where it's cool.
He says 't would be a circus, and Plain duty's wuss than school.
An' so I'll strive an' stand the stress
An' cheerful seek to be.
What's good enough for dad, I guess,
Is good enough for me.
But when I think how things are Planned,
It does seem downright cool.
There ain't enough o' circus, and
There's too blame much o' school.

FARMING OUTLOOK.—The frequent and heavy rains of the past thirty days have kept the farmer in an uneasy frame of mind. He has worried and rejoiced in turn. The showers which came during the wheat harvest and which threatened to spoil the grain before it could be taken in out of the weather caused many an anxious hour and much grumbling over the ill luck of the poor farmer. On the other hand however the farmer could not suppress a smile of real satisfaction when he gazed at his fields of green black corn which had responded so finely to the influence of the soaking rains. The corn crop this season is from three to four weeks earlier and from present indications the chances for a record-breaking yield were never brighter. There probably never was a finer corn crop grown with so little cultivation. Owing to the frequent rains and the rapid growth of the corn the farmers have had little chance to do much plowing, but if the corn is making without the plowing it is so much the better. Tobacco is not faring so well under the rainy conditions. To make a good quality of tobacco it is necessary that the growing crop should be well cultivated, and the rains have seriously interfered with the cultivating process. There may be time and opportunity yet however to remedy that defect and with the fine start it has been given the tobacco crop of 1905 may yet be the largest on record. There is little doubt that the acreage exceeds any previous year.

GOOD BUSINESS.—According to a statement of local merchants the business of the town for the first half of the year ending July 1st was quite satisfactory and shows an increase over the corresponding period last year. The last half of 1904 showed a decided increase in the volume of trade over previous years and if the present proves a good crop year—as it gives every indication of being now—1905 should break the record as a business year for Washington county and Springfield. Several new business houses have been added to the number in Springfield during the past year and although before they started up one would have thought that Springfield had its share, all the new ones appear to be prospering. The statements of our banks on July 1st indicate that the people are not short on money as the amount on deposit shows up well.

ROADS.—Although this is "bad" time of the year for road working Road Supervisor George Clements is getting things in shape to have the roads taken care of as soon as the busy season is over with the farmers. Bids were received and contracts were on last Saturday for working the turnpikes in certain sections and as this work will be done between now and fall it should make quite an improvement in the roads. The Supervisor is also giving some attention to the bridges of the county and quite a number have been put in better shape. The appropriation unfortunately is not large enough to afford first class pikes all at once but with judicious expenditure of what funds that are available a great improvement should be worked in the condition of the county's thoroughfares during the next few months. It is expected that the new road machine recently purchased by the county will work wonders in improving the dirt roads of the county.

Indigestion Cured.
There is no case of indigestion, dyspepsia or stomach trouble that will not yield to the digestive and strengthening influence of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. This remedy takes the strain off the stomach by digesting what you eat and allowing it to rest until it grows strong again. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure affords quick and permanent relief from indigestion and all stomach troubles, builds up the system and so purifies that disease can not attack and gain a foothold as when in a weakened condition. Sold by all Druggists.

MOORESVILLE

Mr. W. P. Pile and family, of Valley Station, visited here last Sunday. Mrs. Pile is still with her father, Mr. Nimrod Smith.

Mrs. Etta Crume is on the sick list.

There was a small crowd out to New Hope last Sunday the day was very lovely.

Born on Sunday July 2, 1905, to the wife of Thomas J. Greene a 10 pound son.

Mr. John Albert Bobbitt and daughter, Miss Jessie, and son, Albert, went to Louisville on the Fourth.

School will open at Fair View July 10th with Miss Mollie Hines as teacher.

We went to Bloomfield last Monday, found business to be flourishing and every body seemed to have a hustle on.

Mr. Mark Hardin and family of this place have moved to Lakeland.

Mr. John Ellis will spend this week with his sister, Mrs. Tea Hardin at Lakeland.

Do the people of this end of the county need a bridge, well I want to say they do. For several days people have to go by the tunnel mill to get to Bloomfield.

Dr. J. N. Shohas had a sick call out to Mr. Thomas Green's and had to drive to the river bridge and then walk across the bridge and up to Mr. Green's. Why is it we do not get the bridge?

Mr. Sam Youner visited friends and relatives in Anderson county last Sunday.

Mrs. Jeff Smith and Mrs. N. D. Pile visited Mrs. Edd Bobbitt, at Springfield, last Tuesday the Fourth.

Mr. James Moran and Mr. Clyde Gostley, of Valley Hill, visited Miss Lela Wall last Sunday.

The Original.
Foley & Co., Chicago, originated Honey and Tar as a throat and lung remedy, and on account of the great merit and popularity of Foley's Honey and Tar many imitations are offered for the genuine. Ask for Foley's Honey and Tar and refuse any substitute offered as no other preparation will give the same satisfaction. It is mildly laxative. It contains no opiates and is safe for children and delicate persons. For sale by The Red Cross Drug Store.

Jensontor

As our town has been still for a few weeks, we will send in a few items.

Mrs. Perkins who has been very sick is some better at this writing.

Miss Pattie Campbell from Springfield is visiting friends and relatives at this place.

Rev. H. P. Hatchett filled his regular appointment at Beech Grove Sunday and preached to a large audience. A good and interesting sermon was delivered. Mrs. Frances Staten is some better at this writing.

Misses Myrtle and Pearl Martin, Lulu Crain and Myrtle Harmon were the pleasant guests at the home of Gracie Cogan, Sunday.

The singing given by Miss Gertie Coyle was well attended and enjoyed by all.

Mr. Elvin Perkins and Miss Pattie Campbell attended the ice cream supper at Texas Saturday night.

Miss Josie Coyle visited at the home of her brother J. M. Coyle Sunday.

Rev. H. P. Hatchett accompanied by M. L. D. Coganouger visited at the home of Mrs. Lucinda Backetter Sunday.

Mrs. Eliza Coyle and son Elissa visited at the home of Mrs. Lucy Cannon one day last week.

School began at this place with a good attendance.

Leaped Out of Windows.

W. Wallace Gallaher, a traveling man from Virginia, who was at the Galt House last night, was one of the witnesses to the killing on Friday afternoon of Lon Beard, the negro who attempted to assault Mrs. Chester Crawford, near Taylorsville. He was in the coach when Mr. Crawford shot the negro five times. He gave a good description of the affair.

"I was sitting in the rear of the coach and saw the Sheriff and the negro get on the train," he said. "At Normandy, as the train stopped, Crawford and several friends entered the coach. One of the men asked the Sheriff if they had the right negro. The Sheriff responded that he was the one who had committed the deed. Without a word, the husband drew his revolver, a .38 caliber pistol of small size, and stuck it over the shoulder of the Sheriff. The negro must have been killed the first shot. He closed his eyes and pitched forward in the seat. Crawford fired four or five times more. It was good shooting and there was never any danger of anyone else being hurt."

"In the seat in front of the negro were a man and boy, and at the first shot they went right out the car window, head-first. They seemed badly scared, but the other persons in the coach sat still through it all. The negro's body was put into the baggage car and the train was not delayed more than five minutes. I never saw a cooler man than the one who did the shooting. He never showed the slightest sign of excitement during or after the shooting."—Courier Journal.

Three Good and Just Reasons.
There are three reasons why mothers prefer One Minute Cough Cure: First, it is absolutely harmless; second, it tastes good—children love it. Third, it cures coughs, colds and whooping cough when other remedies fail. Sold by all Druggists.

A Popular Decision.
Rarely has a decision, in which all the public felt a profound interest, given as much general satisfaction as that of Judge Cochran in the Powers case. There is, for instance, the Maysville Bulletin, a staunchly Democratic paper, which, after citing Judge Cochran's desire to have the whole question settled "for all time to come" by the Supreme Court of the nation, goes on to declare:

"That's right! Let there be an end to the political tragedy. The people of Kentucky are about tired of this bloody business and are entitled to a rest. In removing the case to the United States Court Judge Cochran may be doing a real service to the State in ridding it of an undesirable charge, but it may take a long time to reconcile some of the coons about 'Bloody Breathin' and the Powers case, and mere about the wonderful natural resources of the Grand Old Commonwealth, it'll do more good."

Let us pass Bloody Breathin', also, 'up to Judge Cochran.' That is the sure and safe way of beginning the ending of that scandal. Louisville Herald.

"LAND OF THE SKY"

A News-Leader Correspondent Writes Entertainingly of a Trip in the "Old North State."

Lexington, Ky. July 11, 1905.
Editor: Many moons have waxed and waned since the writer made his bow to the Washingtonians through the columns of your splendid paper, as the "Stringtown" parson. This sobriquet will apply to him no longer. He has become exceedingly peripatetic in disposition and practice. The places that knew him once know him now no more forever. And the fowls that once fled wildly from before his presence, fearing lest they should be compelled to go into the ministry, are now roosting quietly on the lowest branches of the old rambo, they are resting from their labors. The outlook for others of the chicken fraternity is not so bright—ere the closing of the summer campaign many will have gone hence, Siah! as the congregation is becoming somewhat restless shall announce my text, "The Land of the Sky." This text is found in North Carolina, especially in that part where lies the Asheville plateau—a grand sweep of country some six thousand square miles in area, and having a general elevation of two thousand feet above the sea. The sun gets his first glimpse of this charming plateau as he climbs up from behind the Blue Ridge, his last view from the tops of the Great Smoky Mountains. The Great Architect has done well by this country. With hills and valleys, rivers and forests he has built up a landscape that for grandeur and beauty can scarcely be surpassed. Then add to this one hundred peaks which lift their proud heads above the cloudline on the tops of which one may stand and watch the gathering thunders, and hear the crashing thunders, and you have a fascinating vision of what may be seen in the Old North State. One of the most bewitching pieces of scenery is the French Broad River, "the jewel of the Land of the Sky," in a most magnificent mountain setting. From Asheville to the Tennessee line the rails of the Southern Railway follow the long windings of the French Broad River crossing from bank to bank several times. Below Asheville the river flows through an ever deepening gorge, narrow as a Western Canon and impressively grand until it cuts its way through the Great Smoky mountains and reaches Tennessee. For thirty six miles or until the mountain barriers fall back, and no longer dispute its passage, the waters well deserve their musical Cherokee name ("Tachcastee" "the Racing River") and are ever present.

After leaving Asheville, going east, a two-mile ride, and to the right of the very inviting town of Biltmore, built and owned by George W. Vanderbilt. The Biltmore Estate comprises one hundred and eight thousand acres, every foot of which belongs to Mr. Vanderbilt except a small farm. This farm is the property of a "nigger" who has made himself famous by refusing either to "awap" or sell Mr. Vanderbilt's country residence, costing three million dollars, is said to be the finest in America.

The mountains that skirt from the pale northern blist—more monitors, they, of the ages long past. Like sentinels watch o'er the valley below where the swift crystal streams unceasing flow. The pure, healthful breeze, the life-giving air, the beautiful landscape, oft new, ever fair. Are gifts that have come from the Father on high to Him be all the praise for the Land of the Sky."

Black Mountain, with its two great branches is something over twenty miles long, and connects the two border ranges of the Asheville plateau—the great Smoky and Blue Ridge Mountains. The Blue Ridge extends from Northeast to Southwest across the entire state of North Carolina, and forms the great water shed between the East and the west. Passing through these mountains the traveler beholds scenery wild and sublime: Ravines, gorges, frightful chasms, ghastly rents, towering rocks, here! there! Everywhere!! Yes, "Lover's Leap" is to be found in the "Old North State,"—near Hot Springs. It is a romantic spot. The love-sick lovers stand upon the summit they bid farewell to cruel "pas and mas" (this happened in the Stone Age) a protracted spell of occupation, then the leap—the love affair is settled! Never more will they be troubled with heart-pangs or indigestion! Peace to their ashes. At the foot of the Blue Ridge Mountains the trail slows up, the writer grips in hand swings aboard, waves good by to his friend, and we're off. By the help of terraces and tunnels the summit is reached, then a thrilling ride down the mountain into Asheville. The train is leaving Asheville. Some Kentuckians are singing "My Old Kentucky Home," the strains float out through the open window, fall gently upon the billowy bosom of the French Broad river and soon sob themselves to sleep. We bid farewell to the "Land of the Sky" as the train sweeps across the line into Sunny Tennessee and goes rushing on through the darkness toward the Old Kentucky Home!

Shot to Death
Norman, Ky.—Chester Crawford, a young farmer, shot and instantly killed Lon Beard, a negro, who, the night before, attempted to assault Mrs. Crawford. Beard was being taken from Taylorsville to Shelbyville for safekeeping, and when the train stopped at Normandy Crawford stepped aboard and fired seven bullets into the negro's body. He at once rendered to the Sheriff, and after the coroner's verdict was rendered he was released on bond of $1,000 signed by fifteen of the leading citizens of his neighborhood.

CURE FOR HAY FEVER
The Red Cross Drug Store Says Hay Fever Will Give Better Relief Under a Guarantee

The Red Cross Drug Store wishes us to announce that when Hyomei is used as a preventive, or a cure, there will be no hay fever. They advise daily treatment with Hyomei for two or three weeks before the usual time for the annual appearance of hay fever. If this is done, the attack will be prevented. However, if the preventive treatment is not started soon enough, and the disease makes its appearance, use Hyomei six or seven times daily, and relief will be given at once.

There is no stomach dosing when Hyomei is used. Breathe through the nose pocket inhaler, that comes with every outfit, its medicated air reaches the minutest air cells, killing all germs and soothing and healing the irritated mucous membrane.

The complete Hyomei outfit cost but $1. extra bottles 50 cents. It is the only treatment for hay fever sold by The Red Cross Drug Store under a guarantee to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.

The County Weekly.

The Kirkland correspondent of the Harrodsburg Democrat gets off the following observation:

Case Ordered to U. S. Court.

Judge A. M. J. Cochran, of the United States Circuit Court, for the Eastern District of Kentucky, sitting in chambers at Maysville, granted the petition of Caleb Powers for the transfer of the case from the State Circuit Court of Scott county to the United States Circuit Court of the Eastern District of Kentucky.

ons about the county weekly. "We find that several of the extremely wise and superlatively smart daily papers have a habit of poking fun at the county weekly because the correspondent from Hanks, Hollow states that there are twin girls at the home of John Jones, or George James sold a fine mule to Hezekiah Haggood. It is so ex-cruciatingly funny to the great Solomonically daily that sometimes the item is copied and embellished with a cut that would make Zimmerman or Ohm go out and hang themselves. If these know it all—know everything they would know that such items from the back woods reports are just as important as the articles in their "sassy" columns stating that "Mrs. Ham-fat Crupper looked very charming in a Worth gown of green cheese," or that "Mrs. Asorbitt Vander's pug dog is quite lame." Mr. James' mule will bring $100 on the market, while thirty cents would be about the price of the city pup if it sold for its worth. And the twin girls of Mr. and Mrs. Jones are likely to grow up to be true and pure womanhood surrounded by nature, with long, wavy hair and healthy bodies, and give such men and women to the world that amount to something more in the universe than a verisimilar parrot to a false and putrid Soboraz. At last the country paper has a right as much right (and it is a right as well as a privilege) to record the doings of its friends and patrons as the all-important city daily, and has an equal right to poke out the tongue of sarcasm, as the daily does, to report how the Boston baseball team defeated the Chicago team.

One Tried Five Doctors.
Mr. Francis L. Sales, of Mississippi Valley, Ia., writes: "I have been afflicted with kidney trouble five years; had severe pains in my back and a frequent desire to urinate. When riding I experienced much pain over the region of the kidneys. I tried five physicians without benefit and then concluded to try Foley's Kidney Cure. After taking three bottles I was completely cured." For sale by The Red Cross Drug Store.

FOR SALE.—At my place between Booker and Crookes, 7,000 feet of barn lumber and 2,000 30-inch boards. A will sell cheap.

son was sitting on the veranda
of the house, his wife was engaged in some work just inside the door while other members of the family were in various parts of the house. Suddenly lightning struck a tree which stands about ten or twelve feet from the front of the house. Mr. Robinson was knocked from his chair while Mrs. Robinson was rendered unconscious from the shock. A daughter who was in the kitchen was also badly shaken up. Mr. Robinson says that his clothes were nearly all

Base Ball

The Springfield ball team has won two good games of base ball from strong clubs within the past week and local lovers of the sport are consequently highly elated. On last Wednesday afternoon the home team crossed bats with the strong club, the Fetters of Louisville, and the result was a victory for Springfield by a score of 7 to 5. This game was one of the most interesting ever played on the home grounds and the result was in doubt until the last man was out.
The game abounded in brilliant plays.

On Tuesday afternoon of this week the team from Greensburg came over for a game and the two clubs put up a remarkably strong game. It was rather a pitcher's battle both Colvin for Springfield and Ward for Greensburg being in fine form. The latter had the Springfield batters completely at his mercy up until the last inning when they landed on him for four hits which netted three runs and the game. The score up to the ninth inning stood three to one in favor of the visitors, but the local nine made another brilliant finish and won out in the last round.

Total Depravity.

A case of utter depravity on the part of a man and a woman came to light here on Monday
when Lewis Cooley and his wife passed through here on their way to the Pottsville neighborhood from the county poor house. They carried two babies one an infant of only three weeks and the other a girl baby of about two years. While passing through town they met some colored women whose attention was attracted by the pitiable condition of the older child and the rough way the man and woman treated it. The man it is said threatened to kill the baby and both expressed a desire to get rid of it. The colored women whose sympathies were aroused agreed to take the child and the mother and the man turned it over to them and went on their way. The child which appeared to be sick and neglected was cared for by Hattie Mitchell, resident of Mrs. A. C. McElroy and sister of Miss Bettie Irvine, of this place.

Influence of Red Hair.

"There never has been an important revolutionary movement without a red haired person intimately concerned, if not the leader," says a writer. "Nearly all the great reformers or founders of religions had red hair. History tells that Mohammed was a red haired man. King David was ruddy. Louis XIV. was a sandy haired man, with many of the characteristic peculiarities of the type. Cleopatra is called the red haired Greek. Mary, queen of Scots, had red hair, and Prince Charles remained here in coloring. Lucresia Borgia looks in her portraits somewhat sunburnt. Queen Elizabeth was of delightfully red coloring, which will suit both her admirers and her detractors."

Had One Too Many Hissies.

"Serves him right!" murmured Mrs.
Henpeck, looking up from the paper in which she had been reading of the arrest of a bigamist.

"Serves you right!" asked Henpeck
"Oh, a man who took one wife too many."

"My! Maybe they'll be after me
next."—Philadelphia Ledger.
